POLICEMAN BLOCK OFF

Waiting for Relief and Didn't Respond to Cries for Help—
Women Aid Robber.

After a chase of six blocks Policeman James Finnegan reported at the station-house, having been relieved by Sergeant McNaught, who
was identified by the servant.

Policeman in Ignorance.

When Policeman Finnegan reported at the station-house, having been relieved by Sergeant McNaught, who
was identified by the servant.

"What robbery?" asked the policeman.
He was told of the time and place,
and was asked when he was last there.
"I wasn't there for nearly an hour,"
he replied.

"Where were you?"

"At Thirty-sixth street and Ninth avenue waiting for my relief."

"You were within a block of all that racket, and Stanton chased past you.
Why didn't you go to his aid?"

"I was waiting for my relief," replied Finnegan. "I was supposed to be there at midnight and I stayed there."

Finnegan has been on the force only a few days.
